Fundamental Guiding Principles of the Housing Broward plan

- People of all income levels, in all of Broward's communities, should have a range of housing options and should have access to quality, affordable housing.
- Broward's future prosperity and economic vitality is tied to its ability to house its workforce. The plan requires creative and flexible approaches advanced by a diverse set of partners.
- There is no silver bullet that will solve this problem, and a one size fits all approach will not work.
- Private-sector investment and involvement is a critical component of building the market and providing affordable housing in all types of neighborhoods.
- Public investments in housing should be strategically focused to achieve particular goals and to attract the maximum amount of private investment.
- Increasing the capacity and production of dedicated non-profit housing organizations, including community development corporations and community land trusts, is essential for program delivery.
- Communication and coordination among all stakeholders that connect residents to affordable and supportive housing is essential to a successful housing strategy.
